

Initiatives and Training Opportunities for Native Health at the National Institutes of Health
Dr. Angela Kenyukīw Fernandez (Omāēqnomenēw/Menominee Nation)
and Dr. Dorothy Castille, National Institute on Minority Health and Health Disparities (NIMHD)
angela.fernandez@nih.gov; dorothy.castille@nih.gov

In this brief presentation, we will describe the role of the National Institutes of Minority Health and Health Disparities as one of 27 National Institutes of Health Institutes and Centers, as well as the role of the NIH Tribal Health Research Office in partnership with NIMHD and other NIH Institutes. NIMHD specific and NIH-wide training opportunities and research initiatives focusing on Native health will also be described, including examples of funded research projects.